

Victoria Babbit
victoria.babbit@tandf.se

Professional history

Director of Researcher Development and Outreach
May 2019-present

Editorial Director, EMEA
June 2017-May 2019

Regional Publisher, Scandinavia and Eastern Europe, Taylor & Francis
June 2010-June 2017

Managing Editor, Scandinavia, Taylor & Francis
October 2008- June 2010

Guest Researcher at Stockholm University's Center for Research in International Migration and Ethnic Relations (CEIFO)
August 2007-October 2008

Research Assistant Center for Innovation and Research in Graduate Education, University of Washington
June 2006-April 2007
Report: Careers of Geography PhDs: Findings from Social Science PhDs—Five+ Years Out

Education

PhC Geography 2005-2008, University of Washington

My research looked at the legal, political and cultural factors that influenced the discourse in Sweden around human trafficking and the criminalization of migration in general. In addition to research, I taught a series of courses within the Law, Societies and Justice and Geography programs, organized two conferences and was responsible for the LSJ program's external communications.

MA Geography 2005, University of Washington

Area of concentration: legal geography, migration, liberal and feminist theory

BA International Studies 2003, University of Washington

Area of concentration: Middle Eastern studies